Care Packages To Send To Friends In Quarantine

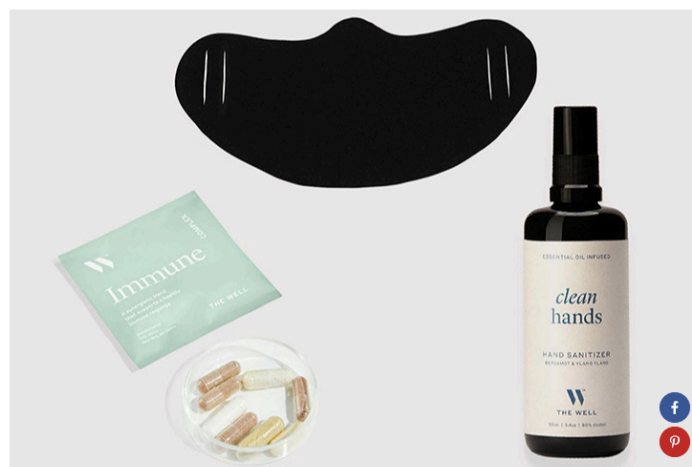

BY SHELBY WAX

PUBLISHED MAY 12 2020

Even though we are social distancing, we feel like we have been connected to our friends more than ever. While we can't see them in person, it's been so valuable doing virtual happy hours on Zoom (with fun backgrounds, of course) or just texting our loved ones more often to see how everyone is doing. Quarantine is not easy and we all could use a little treat now and then to boost morale.

So, if your friend is really starting to have quarantine hit or is just in need of a pick me up, we recommend sending a care package their way. From essentials to save them a trip to the store to bundles perfect for self care, we rounded up our favorite gifts that can be delivered right to your fave's front door.
